U. S. Representatives Will Assist In Internal Investigation.

FRANCE REPORTED AGAINST TRUCE

Proposed Commission Will Not Effect Existing Treaties.

London, May 13.—The United States will have representation on the mixed commission which will investigate internal affairs in Russia and report on the advisability of making a loan, according to a Genoa dispatch to the Daily Express today.

The London press featured advices from France that King George and Field Marshal Haig had cordially shaken hands with Marshal Foch on the Vimy ridge battlefield. The newspapers said this indicated that a royal effort was being made to maintain the friendship between England and France, which had again been threatened by developments in the Genoa conference.

It is reported that the king soon may pay a formal visit to President Millerand of France.

Genoa, May 13.—Official announcement was made today that France is opposed to Premier Lloyd George's program for an European truce based upon the Russian note of Thursday night.

France Can't Accept
"France cannot accept the truce proposal as it stands," said M. Barthou. "There is a general menace to be seen in the proposed truce. Russian propaganda would continue and the commission would work in constant fear of the red army and of Russian violence."

The debate in committee during the late morning and early afternoon was described as "serious but friendly."

It is reliably reported that M. Barthou received telephone instructions from Paris to insist upon adjournment of the conference at the earliest possible moment, not to allow new discussions to develop and to assent to the Russian commission only on two conditions:

1.—That the commission be formed elsewhere than Genoa, and
2.—That only the big five, some neutrals and possibly the United States be given membership.

Italy is supporting the British, with Minister Schanzer, head of the Italian delegation, backing up the proposals of Premier Lloyd George.

Premier Lloyd George is urging the appointment of a sub-commission to work on the proposed truce.

"It will not affect any existing treaties," the British statesman assured the French.

JACK DEMPSEY SAILING FOR HOME, PROMISES TO RETURN IN SEPTEMBER

London, May 13.—Cheered by hundreds of admirers, Jack Dempsey, American heavyweight champion, departed for home today. Dempsey said that he had enjoyed his trip immensely and was glad that a return fight had been arranged with Georges Carpentier, light-heavyweight champion. It will take place in Europe some time before June, 1923.

"I have had a wonderful time, but when I come back in September it will be for business," said Dempsey at Waterloo station just before leaving for Southampton to sail on the Aquitania.

"Beginning in September I will tour Europe for three months in vaudeville and will then begin training for the Carpentier fight. I intend to bring back with me a troupe of American fighters and will arrange a series of bouts."

"I am going to take Bombardier Wells under my wing. The fight game in England needs good heavyweights. I am going to bring some back with me from the states."

Jack Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns are confident of a victory over the French scrapper. London newspapers declare that the Jersey City result last year should warn fight fans that Carpentier is no match for the brawny American.

HELFLIN ASKS SENATE TO PROBE COTTON EXCHANGE

Washington, May 13.—Declaring the United States on the verge of the worst cotton famine in history, Senator Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama, today asked the senate to make a thorough investigation of the New York cotton exchange, the Chicago board of trade and the New Orleans cotton exchange for alleged price fixing and control through future sales.

Heflin said the present cotton crop would be exhausted by July 1 and there would be no more planting because cotton growers were "financially ruined."

In one day this week Clerk Burns received and filed seven cases, every one filed by wives who had been dissatisfied and wanted their freedom.

ROBBERS USE A Mallet To SLAY WOMAN

Wife Of Theater Proprietor Is Brutally Beaten In Her Home.

Cleveland, May 13.—While police are holding one man as a suspect today in the brutal murder of Mrs. Helen Silberberg, wife of Aaron Silberberg, wealthy motion picture house proprietor, it was said that he would probably be freed today, as soon as the work of checking up his alibi was completed.

Meanwhile the bereft husband has employed private detectives to aid police in running down the murderer. "I will spend my last cent in bringing to justice my wife's slayer," he declared dramatically, and his brother-in-law, Charles Aaron, also wealthy, added that he would do the same.

Mrs. Silberberg's body, brutally beaten with a home-made mallet, was found shortly after noon yesterday by her daughter, Roxanna, upon her return from school. The woman was almost unconscious and when neighbors came in whispered faintly, "Aaron, help me," and then passed out unconsciousness. She died on her way to the hospital.

Her skull had been fractured in two places, a postmortem revealed and two of her fingers were broken, police believe, in an effort to pull off diamond rings, the theft of which is believed to have been the motive for the robbery.

The criminal left bloody finger prints upon a washbowl in the bathroom, but it was said by detectives that these were so blurred that they would probably prove useless as a clue.

For on Tuesday the women of Pennsylvania will go to the polls in the first state-wide primary contest in which they have had the right to participate since they were given the ballot.

They may or may not upset the conflicting calculations and predictions as to the vote of Gifford Pinchot, one time Roosevelt progressive, and Attorney General George E. Aker, his opponent for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, will poll as a result of one of the bitterest Republican factional fights ever waged in the tempestuous political history of this state.

Edward Heck, freshman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Stanton Heck, was awarded coveted honors Friday night in the C. T. Brooks literary contest for high school students which closed at the high school auditorium with public reading of papers selected by local teachers as being the best of 93 papers entered.

His short story, "A Marvel of Science," took first prize in the short story division and also won the grand prize of the contest for its originality, grammatical correctness and other requirements of the contest.

Three prizes were offered in each division, orations, essays and short stories. First prize received $18, second $10, third $5 and the individual prize, $1. The winners follow:

Collectively the efforts of the 13 students selected for final competition were exceptionally good for high school students and considerable difficulty was encountered by the judges in awarding the prizes. Highest praise was expressed for winners and losing contestants for their literary achievements which were completed by them without assistance from teachers or others.

Another Contest In Year

The judges were out over half an hour in deliberating on the winners. The essays and short story divisions consumed the majority of the time as five contestants in each of the two divisions had well constructed papers and the qualifications of each had to be carefully weighed to render deserving judgment.

Mr. Booth, chairman of the evening announced that the C. T. Brooks literary contest would be held again next year in the school as it has been shown to have stimulated unusual interest in writing, the public speaking gives the student greater confidence and the diversified subjects chosen by the large number of participants tends to broaden the scope of education into many channels not touched by regular school work.

Let Us Be Just

THE government has come in for much criticism—much of it unreasoning and violent—because it has been reluctant to rush through a soldiers' bonus bill which did not make clear any adequate provisions for the payment of a bonus without injury to the government and the slowly recuperating business of the nation.

A bonus measure probably will be worked out and passed, with the approval of the president, when it appears that such legislation will not disrupt the financial systems of the country.

In consideration of this matter let us be just. To make it an issue of politics would be a confession of the failure of democracy.

No one denies the proper obligations of the nation to its defenders. Democrats and Republicans, alike are earnest in their desire to meet these obligations in the fullest measure. Neither the president nor congress, justly can be accused of seeking to defeat or delay the rights of former service men. There is a world of evidence that both the former and the present administration have tried to meet these obligations as fully as has been consistent with the welfare of the nation as a whole.

Tremendous things have been accomplished in the way of giving aid and assistance to former soldiers and sailors. Figures made public a few days ago disclose that, up to April 1, a total of $1,996,260,634 has been appropriated by congress—a congress composed of Democrats and Republicans—for the welfare of former service men. For this purpose the government is spending more than a million dollars a day. This is something worthy of appreciative consideration, is it not? And here are some additional illuminating figures:

Approximately 30,000 are now in hospitals.

The total number wounded is 208,526.

The total number discharged for disability is 151,916.

The government is paying compensation on 59,420 death claims and 156,539 disability cases.

The amount paid last month for this compensation was $10,340,000.

The government is paying insurance on 134,559 death claims and 6,299 disability claims.

The amount paid in war risk term insurance last month was $8,454,669.17.

The committed value of war risk term insurance allowed by the government is $4,326,985,835.70.

Let us be just. These figures tell an eloquent story. It is true that much remains to be done. It is true that in many instances, hardship, suffering, yes, alas, death urge their insistent appeals. War is a terrible thing. In its reactions it may appear to be as cruel as in its active prosecution. To urge patience may invite the accusation of indifference to the sufferings of the deserving. But we must be just—just to all the people. It is as certain as fate that the government will go on doing its utmost to provide for the men who made possible the winning of the war. No influence of partisanship can affect this determination.

$500,000 IN SUPPLIES IS SHIPPED TO FAMINE REGIONS OF NEAR EAST

Cleveland, May 13.—Approximately $500,000 in food, clothing, medical equipment and other relief supplies was shipped by the Near East relief on two vessels leaving New York this week for the famine regions of the Near East.

The Danish steamer "Leise Maersk," which cleared from Staten Island for Constantinople and Batoum, carried $150,000 of surplus army medical equipment from Camp Jackson, all of it given by the United States government through the American Relief administration. An ambulance train, army cots, a field hospital surgical and dental instruments, and medicine were included in this equipment.

The vessel also carried 11 tractors and four trucks for use in the restoration of agricultural activities in the famine areas which were interrupted by war and invasion. The remainder of the 4000 tons of cargo was made up of corn, grits, beans, flour, dried fruit, canned goods and about 50 tons of old clothing. The greater part of the food cargo was contributed by farmers throughout the country.

Fifteen hundred tons valued at $100,000 more were carried on the shipping board steamer "Coeur d'Alene," which sailed from Brooklyn. Wheat, flour, beans, iron beds for children's hospitals and orphanages, and 5000 cases of condensed milk, composed the relief cargo this vessel which is also bound for Constantinople and Batoum.

Sciatica Shower Is Presented As Farewell Honor

A. Wellington Stoner, who leaves Sunday evening with Mrs. Stoner for Hot Springs, Ark., where he hopes to benefit his health, was the victim of a unique surprise party or "Sciatica Shower" at his home on Tenth st. Friday evening by several associates from the Salem Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Stoner's prolonged attack of sciatic neuritis was made the theme of appropriate donations. "What you need is a couple of new joints. Here they are," was the note attached to a package containing two pipe joints presented by R. W. Hawley, secretary of the Rotary club.

Mrs. Stoner was presented with a pacifier by E. V. Bart, president of the Kiwanis club for use in case her husband is threatened with a restless night enroute. E. E. Enderlin and H. Parker Lovell contributed a large straw hat to shield the convalescent from the sultry southern sun.

Grant Hill gave his "4-in-1 rubber worker" a doozy spring with the suggestion that he save money by holding it over an open fire and have his "hot springs" here. A cargo of flowers was donated by G. R. Deming, president of the Manufacturers' association.

Walter L. Straub, chairman of the Rotary club committee on work for crippled children, furnished a pair of "braces" so that Stoner would not be without "visible means of support" while away. Charles H. Colburn presented a novel with the appropriate title "Alkensis."

J. E. Mather presented his "troop" with a pad of paper suggesting that he write back "If you need my services." T. H. McCune von the literary laurel of the evening by presenting a box of dog biscuits and a poetic epigram.

WASHINGTONVILLE MAY GET ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Washingtonville, May 13.—People here admit that the opening of the Cox highway put the community "on the map," but now something better is in store for this district.

The Harmony Electric Co. wants to establish an electric lighting system in Washingtonville. Harry Laughlin, formerly of East End, East Liverpool was here this week making a survey of the situation with this end in view. Mr. Laughlin was for some years engaged in street railway work in East Liverpool.

"If we can get enough consumers we'll light Washingtonville as it never was before," Mr. Laughlin said.

People here are very much interested in securing an electric service. The village council may also order street lights.

Stringing of wires may begin within the next few weeks as few residents want to do without such service much longer.

GOVERNMENT FULL OF BASEBALL FANS

SENATOR CULBERSON IS ONE OF THE NATIONAL SPORT'S WARMEST ADMIRERS.

OBJECT TO "TEXAS LEAGUER"

Thinks the Term a Reflection on His Great State—Longworth is Alarm Clock for House Members When a Game is On.

By EDWARD B. CLARK
Washington.—The baseball season is on in Washington as it is elsewhere in the country. There are fans in the senate and fans in the house, and, to get away from congress, there are fans in the White House and in all the departments of government. President Harding likes a game. He attended the opening league game here, and it is said that he yelled on certain occasions like a bleacherite.

The greatest fan which Washington ever knew in public life was the late Vice President James S. Sherman. He attended virtually every American league game that was played in this city until one session when he was compelled to stay in the senate because at that time there happened to be no president pro tem of the senate to take his seat in the presiding officer's chair.

Senator Charles A. Culberson of Texas always has been a fan of high degree, and he has had a close runner-up for degree honors in Senator Charles E. Townsend of Michigan. There is in baseball a hit known as the "Texas Leaguer," which is a base hit rather of the pop fly order which lands just back of one of the basemen too far for him to get it and too near to the base line for an outfielder to get it. This is not much of a hit for length or strength, but it is a safe hit, nevertheless.

Senator Culberson, it is said, does not like the name of "Texas Leaguer" as applied to this hit. He has declared on occasion that the state of Texas is so big that home runs can be made there without danger that the ball will fall outside the state boundaries, and that moreover Texans believe in long hard drives.

Longworth Their Alarm Clock.
Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio is one of the house baseball fans. When there are no pressing legislative duties Mr. Longworth leaves his seat in the house in a sort of a nonchalant way about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and saunters out into the corridor.

When Mr. Longworth gets up it is noticed that a good many fellow members rise from their seats and saunter down the aisles in equally nonchalant manner. It might be supposed that this goodly company simply is going out into the corridor to get a drink of water. The illusion, however, is lost, for when the corridor is reached Democrats and Republicans streak it for cars bound for the corner of Florida avenue and Seventh street where they watch the greatest game the sun ever looked on.

In the days that are past congressmen have found trouble by going to baseball games. Nothing has happened this year so far, but it is likely to happen at any moment. Some years ago when they were trying to put some railroad legislation through and every vote was needed, one way or the other as the parties viewed it, it was found that members whose votes were in demand were absent. One day the speaker called the sergeant-at-arms and told him to take five assistants and go to the baseball grounds and there arrest and bring before the bar of the house every member who preferred the national pastime to national legislation.

Members Sometimes Arrested.
The sergeant-at-arms obeyed the order and the result was that about twenty members of the house of representatives of the American congress were led back to the capitol under arrest before they had been given an opportunity to cheer the home team to victory.

The arresting of members has not been confined to days when there were baseball games. Once when President and Mrs. Taft gave a lawn party on a beautiful May day in the White House grounds the invited ones, of course, included members of congress. Now it happened that on this particular day the house was in for a long session and the attendance of all the members was needed because a vote was to be taken which promised to be close. The speaker called the sergeant-at-arms and told him to go out and bring in the absentee members, no matter where they were.

An order from congress is an order and the sergeant-at-arms and his assistants made up their minds to obey it. They knew where most of the runaways were, and so they stationed themselves near the White House grounds and inside of a half hour they had arrested a number of congressmen who were accompanying their wives, their daughters or their sweethearts to the White House party. Possibly this would have raised a street row had it not been for the fact that most of the attending representatives knew that their duty lay elsewhere and so they did not care to protest too loudly in public.

What God Says
about - RESTLESS PEOPLE
They have not rejected thee,
but they have rejected me."

Samuel is angry.
After a life-long service to the Jewish Nation as priest, prophet, and judge, the ungrateful people come to him and say—give us a king like all the other nations round us.

And Samuel is displeased. But he does the right thing with his wounded pride—he tells God all about it.

And God replies—Give them what they want, "they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me."

And that is the trouble today. Nations want to cure evils felt and evils imagined by a change of government, and God says the trouble with you is—you have rejected me.

And as God let the Jews get into all sorts of trouble with kings, He is going to let this old world get into all sorts of trouble with socialism and Soviets, and the devil knows what all, unless—yes unless it repents and seeks God.

HO-POP

This is a long French loaf baked right on the oven hearths, thereby giving you that wonderful flavor so impossible to get in a pan baked loaf. It has a nutty taste hard to imitate. This is the bread you so often get in a hotel or restaurant, and which tastes so good with a steak or chop. You often hear the remark "Why can't I buy bread like that." Well, you can, and in a long paper container to protect it from the dirt and germs floating around. Look for the sack with the little Red Boy on it.

This Strong, Silent Cleaner

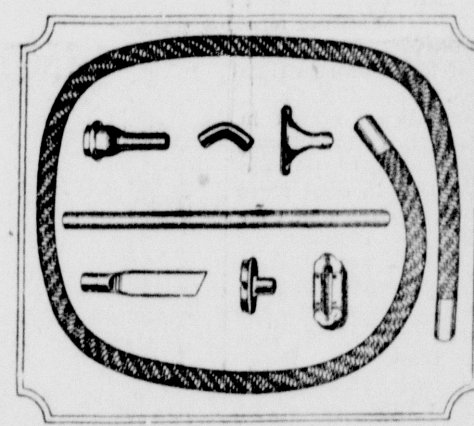

Offers Most for the Money

To all who appreciate quality and fine workmanship, we present the Hamilton Beach Vacuum Sweeper, leader in a highly competitive field.

Its unquestioned superiority is founded on brilliant design, generous value, substantial construction, and painstaking attention to detail. When you see it, mark its beauty. Note its over-strength parts, and powerful guaranteed motor. Hear how quietly it operates. Observe how it overcomes every constructional objection you have to other cleaners.

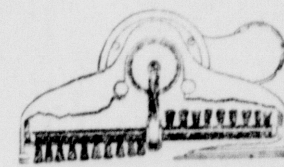

The switch in the handle, easy for the housewife to stop and start. It has a wonderful and instantaneous finger-tip nozzle adjustment for rugs and carpets with any length of nap. The motor is horizontal to reduce wear in the bearings, and results in a cleaner so low that it easily goes under all furniture.

There is nothing "baby" about it. It is built to be better, and more value for the money, with its cleaning power multiplied by the motor-driven brush.

Attachments

No other cleaner with a motor-driven brush has anything like the powerful suction of the Hamilton Beach Vacuum Sweeper. That explains the real efficiency of its attachments. From the illustration you can see that only common sense tools with a definite function are offered. Everything in the house can be thoroughly cleaned with them, velvet furniture, draperies, mouldings, radiators, bookcases, and all sorts of hard-to-get-at places, and corners. It is fun to clean house with this easy running cleaner; and it is as silent and long-lasting as it is tireless and thorough.

A cleaner without a motor driven brush only half cleans, and takes twice as long, at that. So this sweeper combines a motor-driven brush with extra powerful suction. The brush whizzes up all clinging dirt and lint, and thoroughly shakes loose all deeply embedded particles. Then--Whist! the powerful suction draws up all the dirt and litter, while lifting and straightening the nap.

CONGRESS TO HAVE WEARYING SUMMER

SESSION DEALING WITH THE TARIFF AND BONUS SURE TO BE WARM IN TWO WAYS.

EXAGGERATION OF DEBATERS

Their Extravagant Statements Concerning the Customs Measure Lead One to Doubt the Existence of Statesmanship in Either House.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—Congress has settled down with a surface cheerfulness to a summer session of the tariff, a session likely in more than one meaning of the adjective. At the present moment the tariff is a marching band of the legislature, if the pace at which the customs measure is progressing can be called a march. Later the tariff must go it alone.

It is asked frequently if there are statesmen in Washington. Every member of congress if asked the question probably modestly would decline to answer. The majority of the people would judge as to the statesmanlike qualities of their representatives and senators in congress, and, for that matter, of their President and his cabinet officers. Sometimes it is hard for one to believe that there can be anything like statesmanship in either house when he is compelled to listen to certain utterances which come from the neighborhood of this seat or that.

For instance, the tariff measure has been denounced by some of its sponsors to be the greatest economic libel of a people which ever was named or conceived by man. Some opponents of the tariff measure have declared it to be disruptive of American economic conditions, the last word of appeal for the annihilation of all that Americans commercially hold dear.

When you get expressions like these from leaders on the one hand and on the other, it is possible that there can be lurking belief in anybody's mind that statesmanship exists anywhere under the dome of the capitol of the United States?

No One Believes This Extravagance.

It is not probable at all that any Republican believes the tariff measure is a proposed legislative enactment second only in importance to the American people to the Declaration of Independence. Neither is it probable at all that any Democrat who stands opposed to the bill believes it will dynamite American commercial institutions out of existence and bring to this country a condition of something like that which today exists in Europe.

Some congressmen do not put in much time at the thinking job. Any even near statesman probably realizes that the extravagances of expression which have been used by both sides in connection with the tariff bill simply will appear ridiculous to humor-loving Americans. When a senator or a representative breaks loose he knows no restraint, save in rare instances, for admission must be made that there are a few men in the employment of the people of the United States who can deal in words of moderation and yet of strength and who do not find it necessary to attempt to make the well-known welkin ring every time the tongue is moved to action.

There will be all kinds of things said in all kinds of voice tones before the tariff bill for good or ill shall be passed by the American congress. In a great measure the debate will be drawing but there will be a touch of strategy now and then and perhaps something of real strength in a few of the appeals which are to be made for or against the measure which now is in the keeping of the senate of the United States.

In the main, however, when a tariff discussion is on the galleries of the United States senate offer a seductive retreat for persons afflicted with insomnia.

No More Free Lemonade.

Congress in summer this year in a way will be a fairly pathetic figure, because economy has come to town, and no longer will the cooling drink of lemonade made from the fruit of the tree with the addition of this mineral water or that mineral water be dispensed without price to the thirsty sufferers.

Once upon a time when the first linen suit made its appearance in senate and house the lemonade pitchers came along with it. Congress in the old days dispensed a cooling and a really necessary hospitality to itself and to certain of its satellites. For a year or two, however, congressmen have concluded that the forcing of economy in the government departments can be carried through more consistently if it shall deprive itself of certain things which some people call luxuries, but which in the stifling capital in midsummer are really necessities.

Most of the members of congress are restive because of the tariff bill delay. The house members and some of the senate members are anxious to get back to what one believes are called the hustings. The congressional campaign will be on shortly, and it may be that those whose seats are in danger must decide between criticism which will come to them for leaving the capitol, and the threatenings of danger if they do not leave to go home there to make their pleas for re-employment by the people.

Is Your Blood Good Blood Or Is It

Weak, Sluggish, Thin, Watery. Without any Snaps or Vitality? You can tell by the way you feel. You need Hood's Sarsaparilla to make your blood rich, red and pure, tingling with health for every organ and tissue. You need it if weak and tired day in and day out, if your appetite is poor, sleep unrefreshing, if for humors, boils, eruptions, scrofula, rheumatism, headaches, nervous prostration. It is simply wonderful to give strength to your whole body. Why should you not get all the help Mrs. Maloney did and more? Read her letter:

"It was because my grandmother when she was 80 took Hood's Sarsaparilla with so much benefit that I have used it myself. I was troubled with Sores and Boils caused by impure blood. My head and face were especially afflicted, and it was very humiliating to me. Our family doctor when asked about Hood's Sarsaparilla said I should take it, and ought to have begun with it before. He believed Hood's Sarsaparilla would bring me out all right, and it did. It purified my blood and gave me a beautiful complexion." Mrs. SAMUEL MALONEY, 1529 W. Edgely Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

BUS REGULATION HELD NECESSARY

Number of Accidents at Road Crossings Increasing.

SOLOWS TO TAKE UP PROBLEM

State Hospitals Handicapped by Inability to Obtain Competent Help. Shakeup in Industrial Department Reported Imminent—Farming Out of Prisoners to Be Regulated. State Affairs.

Columbus, May 13.—Laws dealing with the regulation of motor buses must be passed by the next session of the legislature, according to members of the public utilities commission.

Such laws are necessitated because of the increasing number of accidents at road crossings, say the officials, who declare something must be done for the protection of patrons of the bus lines.

While the buses were made common carriers by the last session of the legislature, and as such must file with the commission a schedule and tariff rates, the jurisdiction of the commission stops there. It may compel railroads to install gates and put watchmen at crossings, but this does not stop accidents, say members of that body.

"I have a report here now from one railroad," said Secretary J. N. Baird, "stating that in the last year autoists have driven through and broken down the crossing gates on East Broad street, Columbus, 12 times. And watchmen are dubious about standing in the middle of the track because of the danger of being run over by automobiles."

The only way in which the crossing accident danger could be entirely eliminated, commission officials agree, would be by eliminating all grade crossings. Cost of doing this would be prohibitive, they believe.

The bus line problem is made more difficult, it was pointed out, because they are practically free from state control and anyone may operate one.

In my opinion, the legislature should at least pass an act which would compel bus lines to post liability bonds with the commission," said Commissioner Mauller. "This would give passengers financial protection, enable them to recover, and, I believe, tend to keep irresponsible persons out of the business."

State hospitals are taxed not only because of the increasing number of patients, but because superintendents are unable to obtain competent help at the low wages paid by the state, according to Dr. H. S. MacAyeal, state director of welfare.

Dr. MacAyeal says that every hospital in the state, as well as several of the penal institutions, is short-handed and that the department has been forced to resort to newspaper advertising in the hope of obtaining a sufficient number of attendants.

That there are many people willing to take jobs at the institutions, he says, is indicated by the number of responses the department has received from the advertisements, but practically all of the applicants lose interest when they learn the wage scale, he says.

Women nurses receive only $20 to $30 a month and men receive but $10 more, he said.

Three inmates of the state hospital at Cleveland were sent to the county jail this week because they were violent and the hospital was not equipped to care for them, he said.

"The situation in Cleveland is bad, very bad indeed, probably the worst in the state," says Dr. MacAyeal. "But it is a condition which can not be prevented until Ohio increases its maximum and minimum wage for this class of help. The work is not the most desirable in the world, and to get suitable help the state must pay larger wages."

A proclamation has been issued by Governor Davis calling attention to the fact that Sunday is Mothers' day, and urging that proper observance of the day be given in all churches of the state. He urges also that men, women and children wear as a reverential token their mother's favorite flower.

The proclamation says: "We speak of the achievements of men, we laud their contributions to the world's progress, but the transcendent part though performed unsung and unobtrusively, always has been and at ways will be that of mothers. At birth, at death, and in all of life's vicissitudes, in between, she gives of herself. She makes the home her influence remains with us throughout life and actuates our best impulses. Realizing this, we have annually set aside a day dedicated wholly as a tribute to her."

The taking of a census of crippled persons of the state of Ohio that might be added and made partially or wholly self-supporting by state rehabilitation, which is being made this week by members of the Ohio State

Medical society and its 87 county branches, is showing great progress, according to W. F. Shaw, head of the civilian rehabilitation department of the department of education.

Blanks have been sent out to more than 5,000 physicians of the state, and more than 200 reports have been made, although the plan does not call for reports until the end of the week, he said.

While the census is taken primarily with the idea of helping adult cripples, the names of children are being taken also, to be turned over to the division of the department that has charge of the education of cripples by the organization of special classes for them.

Rotary clubs all over the state are observing this week as Crippled Children's week and spokesmen from that organization are preaching in all parts of the state the doctrine of adequate medical, surgical, hospital and educational services for the 15,000 crippled children of the state.

Special classes for the crippled have been formed in most of the larger cities and state aid in the way of funds is available to boards of education everywhere for the purpose.

That a shake-up in the industrial department, with the discharge of Chairman Thomas J. Duffy and J. D. Clarke, both of whom are Democratic holdovers, is imminent, is the report current in Columbus.

While both Duffy and Clarke are serving for definite terms, which still have some time to run, the law provides that they may be removed for cause by the governor. It is said that recent dissensions in the board will be the cause used by Governor Davis as a ground for dismissal. Duffy and Clarke have aligned themselves against Rose Moriarty, the lone Davis appointee, on several occasions.

While this is given as the primary cause for the possible dismissal, many in Columbus profess to believe that the fact that Duffy is being prominently mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for governor has something to do with the decision to act at this late date.

A conference of Democratic women of Ohio has been called for 1 p. m. Friday, at a Columbus hotel, by W. W. Durbin, chairman of the Democratic executive committee. Durbin says the meeting is called for the purpose of organizing the women for their part in the coming campaign. Former Governor James M. Cox is expected to address the meeting.

Spray your fruit trees, whether the frost killed the crop or not, is the advice being sent out to Ohio orchardists by E. C. Cotton, head of the division of plant industry of the state department of agriculture.

According to Cotton, after the severe frosts of a year ago, many orchardists considered it useless to either spray or fertilize the trees, while others did both for the benefit that might accrue to the trees this year.

It developed, Cotton says, that most of the growers that sprayed had at least a partial crop, while the unsprayed trees in damaged sections were fruitless. Furthermore, reports of apple scab are coming in now from orchards that were not treated a year ago, while those that were sprayed are comparatively free of the pest. Similarly, results of last year's fertilization are showing now and will help this year's crop.

"The fruit business means work every year, crop or no crop, and the better the care the bigger the crop in the favorable years," Cotton says.

Superintendents of state reformatories will not in the future be permitted to farm out prisoners or release them on parole without the consent of the state board of pardons, Dr. MacAyeal, head of the state welfare department, said, following the investigation of the practice of allowing women in the state reformatory at Marysville to work in Union county homes.

Disclosures made in the juvenile court of Franklin county last week revealed the fact that approximately 50 women of the reformatory were working as domestics in homes, and not even reporting at the reformatory at night. Dr. MacAyeal said he knew of the practice, but that it had been in vogue when he took office and that he had never ordered it stopped.

The action of Director MacAyeal in ordering the practice stopped followed the denunciation of the system by Judge Rogers of Franklin county common pleas court, when he learned that a colored married woman sentenced by him to life imprisonment, less than a year ago, was working in the home of an attorney at Marysville, without having been paroled by the board.

Dr. MacAyeal, commenting on the conditions in reformatories, said: "I am taking the matter up with Mr. Perry with a hope that we can arrange some kind of a working parole for these women. The institution is filled far beyond its capacity, and close supervision is kept on all who are permitted to work outside the walls in private families."

"I am going to see if we can make some kind of an arrangement whereby a number of these women will be permitted to be employed outside, but with proper restrictions if such can legally be done. If it can not, of course all women now outside, without approval of the parole board, will have to be returned, but no such order will be issued until the entire matter is investigated."

This is the bread you so often get in a hotel or restaurant, and which tastes so good with a steak or chop. You often hear the remark "Why can't I buy bread like that." Well, you can, and in a long paper container to protect it from the dirt and germs floating around. Look for the sack with the little Red Boy on it.

Attachments

No other cleaner with a motor-driven brush has anything like the powerful suction of the Hamilton Beach Vacuum Sweeper. That explains the real efficiency of its attachments. From the illustration you can see that only common sense tools with a definite function are offered. Everything in the house can be thoroughly cleaned with them, velvet furniture, draperies, mouldings, radiators, bookcases, and all sorts of hard-to-get-at places, and corners. It is fun to clean house with this easy running cleaner; and it is as silent and long-lasting as it is tireless and thorough.

A cleaner without a motor driven brush only half cleans, and takes twice as long, at that. So this sweeper combines a motor-driven brush with extra powerful suction. The brush whizzes up all clinging dirt and lint, and thoroughly shakes loose all deeply embedded particles. Then—Whist! the powerful suction draws up all the dirt and litter, while lifting and straightening the nap.

This Strong, Silent Cleaner

Offers Most for the Money

To all who appreciate quality and fine workmanship, we present the Hamilton Beach Vacuum Sweeper, leader in a highly competitive field.

Its unquestioned superiority is founded on brilliant design, generous value, substantial construction, and painstaking attention to detail. When you see it, mark its beauty. Note its over-strength parts, and powerful guaranteed motor. Hear how quietly it operates. Observe how it overcomes every constructional objection you have to other cleaners.

The switch in the handle, easy for the housewife to stop and start. It has a wonderful and instantaneous finger-tip nozzle adjustment for rugs and carpets with any length of nap. The motor is horizontal to reduce wear in the bearings, and results in a cleaner so low that it easily goes under all furniture.

There is nothing "baby" about it. It is built to be better, and more value for the money, with its cleaning power multiplied by the motor-driven brush.

JOHN PAUL JONES MAN OF MYSTERY

JUST WHY THE GREAT ADMIRAL
FOUGHT FOR AMERICA IS A MATTER OF CONJECTURE.

PATRIOTISM OR AMBITION?

James Fenimore Cooper, Himself a
Navy Man, Says the Alien Hero
Was Animated by Desire for Distinction, His Ruling Passion.

Washington.—The Daughters of the American Revolution have ended their annual convention in the city of Washington. It was in their time memorial building that the international conference on the limitation of armaments met last November. The Daughters from time to time have been interested in the erection and the emplacement of statues and other memorials in various parts of the country. They had a part in the collection of funds for the monument to the memory of John Paul Jones, sea fighter, which stands close to the waters of the Potomac basin in this city.

John Paul Jones' remains lie honored in the chapel at the naval academy at Annapolis, a little more than an hour's ride from the capital. It is said that his remains are there, but there always will be a doubt as to whether or not the identification of the body of the Revolutionary hero was positive enough to make it certain for all time that no mistake was made and that the remains of some other than he does not lie under the chapel's dome.

Some day it may be known definitely whether America's first admiral fought for the infant republic from motives of pure patriotism or from the spur of ambition. He fought with nothing less than desperate courage for the cause which he has espoused, but there are those things in John Paul Jones' life which make it seem that he may have fought because of sheer love of fighting, and because the immediate need of the struggling colonies gave opportunity for the acquiring of that need of individual glory which some men claim the soul of John Paul Jones craved.

Was He Patriot, or Just Hero?

He did his work well; there was no turning back; there was no let-up in endeavor. No man whose birthplace was America and whose heart's love was fixed on the country of his birthstone fought more apparently selflessly for the cause of the colonies than did John Paul Jones, the alien. For what he did his name will be held in admiration in the centuries to come, as it has been held in the century that has passed. It may be that when more is known about this man of mystery the people will reverse his memory as they do that of the known patriots of the Revolution.

James Fenimore Cooper served in the United States navy. In common with his fellow sailors of the old oaken frigates, he held in chief place of honor the alien admiral who commanded the first vessel flying the American flag which compelled a ship of the supposedly invincible British navy to strike its colors. Yet James Fenimore Cooper in that greatest of sea tales, "The Pilot," paints John Paul Jones as a hero rather than a patriot. At the close of the story Cooper puts into the mouth of one of his chief characters, a naval officer, these words touching the life and motives of John Paul Jones:

"His devotion to America proceeded from a desire for distinction, his ruling passion. His love for liberty may be the most questionable, for if he commenced his deeds in the cause of these free states, they terminated in the services of a despot. He is now dead, but had he lived in times under circumstances when his consummate knowledge of his profession, his cool, deliberate and even desperate courage could have been exercised in a regular and well-supported navy, and had the habits of his youth better qualified him to have borne meekly the honors he acquired in his age, he would have left behind him no name in his list that would have descended to the latest posterity of his adopted countrymen with greater renown."

Another View of His Motives.

It may be, however, that the American who reveres John Paul Jones for the blows that he struck for liberty would prefer to take as the essence of truth the words which Cooper put into the mouth of the admiral. In the story "The Pilot," John Paul Jones stands on English soil and has met Alice Dunscombe. She upbraids him for being disloyal to his king. "The Pilot" answers:

"A man with a soul is not to be limited by the arbitrary boundaries of tyrants and hirelings, but one has the right, as well as the inclination, to grapple with oppression, in whose name soever it is exercised or in whatsoever hollow and specious shape it found its claim to abuse our race."

It is evident that Cooper's judgment repudiated the words of his hero, for the passage quoted first almost unquestionably expresses the judgment of the American novelist on the motives and character of the first great American admiral.

One of the latest, and perhaps the best of the biographers of John Paul Jones, says that his life was written in three languages—English, French and Russian—and that though this life was "for more than 100 years the theme of many busy pens, the half of it has not yet been told."

METHODIST DEBATORS TO ARGUE ATTENDANCE

Six debaters at the Methodist church Monday evening are to consider a subject which so far as is known has never been debated in Salem. A lively general discussion is expected to follow the debate, the subject of which is, "Resolved, That Sunday School Attendance Should be Made Compulsory in Salem for all Children of School Age."

Ralph Kuhl, A. F. Kingsley and R. P. Fletcher are on the affirmative, and Charles Metz, J. M. Veach and Charles Lease on the negative team. The debate is to be a feature of an entertainment given for all the men in the church and is open to all who may care to attend. Dr. S. A. McCullough's class of young men has prepared the program and promises an interesting social evening aside from the debate.

The debate is to be entirely formal but an open discussion of the subject will follow the decision of the

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."—Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Nervousness, irritability, heat flashes, headache and dizziness, are relieved by this splendid medicine.

One month from this date the class plans to present exactly the opposite kind of a program. This will be a stunt night with nothing except foolish and funny stunts from start to finish.

Names of Indians and Orientals.

Like our American redmen, the Orientals put a good deal of poetry as well as keen analysis of character into their personal names, writes Garrett P. Serviss in the Chicago American. Thus Isaac meant "laughter," Jacob, "supplanter," Isaiah "salvation," Deborah "bee," Sarah "princess," Hannah "gracious," Rachel "ewe," David "beloved," Ruth "beauty" and Tamar "palm tree." Fenimore Cooper, in his matchless "Leatherstocking" tales, finely illustrates the American Indian method of bestowing personal names when he makes his great hero of the woods explain some of the successive names which his admiring friends gave him.

Detroit, May 13. — Characterizing as "ridiculous" charges by "Buck" Weaver, banished White Sox ball player, that the Detroit Tigers "threw" the American League pennant in 1917 to the Chicago American League team, Charles P. Navin, secretary of the Detroit club said today: "I trust Detroiters will not even consider seriously the charges of Weaver, much less believe him. He is a discredited man, known to be dishonest and in making the charges he is unquestionably actuated by an ulterior motive."

"I don't care to discuss the charge at length—it is ridiculous too foolish to reply to. The Tigers cannot be injured by the charge of such a man as Weaver. If he had anything to say about the Detroit team 'throwing' a pennant, he should have said it when he was on trial."

Frank J. Navin, president of the club, is out of the city, but his brother, Charles, said the club head would fall to be alarmed by Weaver's charge.

Mrs. Harding's Letter Will Save Life Of Injured Boy

Cincinnati, May 13.—Red-haired, freckle-faced Wilbur Morgan, 14 years of age, lying in a plaster cast at St. Mary's hospital, today looked on the world as a place well worth while after a, although for four days physicians had feared that he would die because as they said, "he had lost the will to live."

Depressed and lonely, his body encased in a plaster cast, he would not talk but cried frequently.

Wilbur was a member of the boys' band of Manchester, Ohio, which furnished music for the Grant Centennial celebration at which President Harding spoke at Point Pleasant, and was seriously injured when one of the decks collapsed.

Late yesterday Wilbur received a letter. It read:

"My dear Wilbur: I want you to know how very much interested I was in the Manchester boys' band and I regretted very much not being able to hear it."

"I hope your injury is not so serious as was feared and assure you of the great distress the president and I have felt that you and the boys who had come to give us such a splendid welcome should have met with such a distressing accident."

"With the sincerest hope that you are not in great pain and that you may be restored to good health."

"Sincerely

"FLORENCE KLING HARDING"

This morning not a single physician, attendant, nurse or fellow patient was permitted to pass Wilbur's bed without reading the letter. He chatted gaily with all, strummed a gay tune on the cloak of plaster with the White House envelope and hummed an accompaniment as hospital attendants congratulated him upon the interest displayed by the "first lady of the land."

Physicians believe that Wilbur's

What It Costs the Ice Dealer to be READY

READINESS to serve is a very big item in the cost of ice delivery. It involves filling ice houses to take care of maximum need in event of a hot summer or providing capacity to make enough ice. If the summer turns out cool the preparation is wasted.

Then the ice dealer must be prepared to deliver ice the year round. More and more of his customers take some ice in winter. He keeps his wagons going to deliver it as needed. That is a heavy expense. The tonnage is too light to pay for his overhead; so in winter the ice dealer always loses money.

In the heat of summer it takes a lot of wagons and drivers to take care of rush demand. When people need ice, they need it immediately. Prompt service is expensive.

The making or harvesting of ice is not the main expense—its cost is a fraction of the total price charged the consumer. Delivering ice and being ready to deliver it as needed often eats up one-half of every dollar you pay to the ice dealer.
